2023 Oakland Youth Poet Laureate

On June 2, Nairobi Barnes was named the 2023 Oakland Youth Poet Laureate after competing with six other finalists, winning a $5,000 college scholarship generously funded by the Friends of the Oakland Public Library.

The award was announced by District 4 Council member Janani Ramachandran at the culmination of a packed, standing-room-only live event during which all finalists performed.

Barnes, a 2022 graduate of Oakland Military Institute, will represent the Oakland community through poetry, media, and public appearances.

On being the 2023 Oakland Youth Poet Laureate, Barnes says, “Poetry is more than the words written for the speaker, poetry is more than the depths of emotion that it evokes, poetry is more than myself and every other poet before me. It is community; it is the city of Oakland that I call home, it is the way my mother wishes me well, it is the way I love myself and others. Poetry is what keeps me kind and loving, it is my promise to others that I will lead this year with fulfillment and bravery, and it is my greatest pleasure to stand beside the Oakland Public Library to spread poetry and all its love to others.”

Get to Know Your Grants

By Sara DuBois, Coordinator of Grants & Volunteers

In 2021-22, the Friends of the OPL awarded the first set of Branch Equity Grants: discretionary awards ($1,500 at the time) to each branch located in a high priority neighborhood (per the OakDOT Equity Toolbox.)

The impact of these grants was immediate and powerful, and the Friends of the OPL generously increased the size of each grant to $2,500 in 2022-23. As we approach the end of the Friends’ fiscal year, the library is pleased to share just a few of the highlights from this program. These projects and activities – and others not included in the list below – would not have been possible without the Branch Equity Grants.

- 81st Avenue Branch hosted an online program with award-winning organizer, speaker, political commentator, producer, independent journalist, and scholar-activist Rosa Clemente.
- Asian Branch worked with the Cut Fruit Collective, Civic Design Studio, and students from Oakland High School Visual Arts Academy to create a colorful and fun mural in the branch.
- Brookfield Branch staff purchased lumber and built another box for their garden. The Branch Manager reported that a neighbor offered to help, adding that the library’s garden – started with last year’s Branch Equity grant – is “bringing people in the neighborhood together.”
- The César E. Chávez Branch engaged local mural artist Xochitl Guerrero to design and paint a mural that delights and inspires all visitors to this busy branch. You can see photos and read more about the work at www.fopl.org/news.
- Eastmont Branch has continued its popular Chair Yoga series, which is designed to help those who have difficulty getting up and down from the floor to enjoy the many benefits of yoga.
- For its reopening after significant renovations, the Elmhurst Branch staff ordered supplies for an open house celebrating the improvements.
- Building on last year’s success, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Branch organized another team building and art activity for teen patrons.
- Melrose Branch purchased supplies and equipment to support the launch of a new teen gardening program.
- West Oakland Branch staff purchased supplies for their comfort cabinet, which allows patrons in need to access necessities such as deodorant, socks, sunscreen, tissues, and bandages.

The Branch Equity Grants allow staff to plan and quickly implement new programs, activities, and facility improvements. They make a big impact, and the library is very grateful to all the library Friends who make them possible!

Note: Although also located in a high priority neighborhood, the African American Museum & Library at Oakland (AAMLO) did not receive a Branch Equity grant because the 2022-23 Annual Grants already included an award of $7,000 designated for AAMLO programs, supplies, and equipment.

Remembering Judy Toll: a Dedicated Friend and Advocate of the OPL
Our friend and former board member Judy Toll died peacefully on May 20, 2023. Judy joined the Bookmark volunteer staff in 2001 after retiring from a career as a High School Librarian. She served on the board from 2003 to 2017. Judy loved the Oakland Public Library, the Friends of OPL, and most especially, the Bookmark. She led the Bookstore Committee for several years and continued to volunteer at the store on Friday afternoons until March 2020.
